Introducing Abbey.

Abbey Rose Faulkner is a rising voice in Australian media – confident, charismatic, and full of heart.

She first caught national attention as one of the breakout stars of ABC's The Assembly, where she famously asked Prime Minister Anthony Albanese for a job. That bold moment captured what Abbey is all about: saying what others are thinking, leading with courage, and showing up with humour and honesty.

Abbey is passionate about storytelling, connection, and creating a more inclusive media industry. With a natural flair for presenting and engaging with people from all walks of life, she brings authenticity, curiosity, and spark to every role she takes on.

Whether she's on the red carpet or behind the mic, Abbey's ability to connect is undeniable – and she's just getting started.
